Wedding Presents, Valued at $500,000, to Be Exhibited on Monday.

Special Cable Despatch to THE SEN LONDON, Oct. 11 - With the arrival of King George and Queen Mary at Buckingham Palace from Balmoral last night ... for the royal wedding next week the social life of London began to reawaken. Many well known persons are returning to town and several distinguished families who usually spend the autumn in the north are here for the wedding. The winter social season can hardly, however, be said to have started. The court will remain at Buckingham Palace about a week and many society folk will leave London again as soon as the wedding of London again as soon as the wedding of Prince Arthur of Connaught and the Duchess of Fife is over.

There has not been a royal wedding in England since June 15, 1905, when the present bridegroom's sister, Princess Margaret of Connaught, became the bride of the Crown Prince of Sweden in St. George's Chapel, Windsor.

After much discussion and many changes all arrangements for Wednesday's wedding are now complete. Several day's wedding are now complete. Several structural changes in the chapel royal at St. James's Palace were necessary in order to accommodate the guests. The pews have been removed and the floor on each side of the chapel has been raised to enable everybody to have an uninter-rupted view of the ceremony.

The celebrated gold plate of the chapel will be on the communion table. The choir will be accommodated in the organ chamber. The Archbishop of Canterbury, the Bishop of London, dean of the chapel royal, and Canon Sheppard, the sub-dean, will perform the ceremony.

The ways from the croud staircase of the chapel royal and Canon Sheppard, the sub-dean will perform the ceremony. The route from the grand staircase of the palace to the door of the chapel 'royal will be lined with non-commis-sioned officers and men of Prince Arthur's regiment, the Scots Greys. The wedding will be at noon precisely.
